Mr Istvan Mersich is a Consultant Orthopaedic Surgeon who sees NHS patients at Barlborough NHS Treatment Centre near Chesterfield. He has a busy private practice at BMI The Park Hospital in Nottingham. He specialises in shoulder and elbow surgery such as joint replacement, arthroscopy, rotator cuff treatment as well as hip and knee replacement surgery.

Consultant Orthopaedic Surgeon Mr Istvan J Mersich completed his orthopaedic surgical training in Budapest, Hungary in 1997, with further lower- and upper limb training in Hungary and further subspecialist training in Shoulder Surgery in Nottingham in 2000. He is a member of the Orthopaedic Team at Barlborough NHS Treatment Centre and he sees private patients at BMI The Park Hospital in Nottingham.

Mr Mersich undertook a one year Shoulder and Elbow Fellowship on the Nottingham Shoulder and Elbow Unit under the tuition of Professor Angus Wallace and Mr Lars Neumann in 2000. He then returned to Hungary where he was the head of the Shoulder and Elbow Unit at the University Hospital of Semmelweis Medical School in Budapest. Working at a teaching hospital he has also been involved in training of orthopaedic postgraduate and undergraduate trainees.

In 2005 Mr Mersich returned to the UK as a Consultant Orthopaedic Surgeon at Barlborough NHS Treatment Centre, where he has performed numerous hip and knee replacements and also knee arthroscopies.

Mr Mersich then established the Shoulder and Elbow Unit at Barlborough in 2009 and has been in charge of the shoulder and elbow service since. Wherever possible he conducts lower limb operations under spinal anaesthesia, and shoulder surgery using regional nerve block; this offers lower levels of discomfort and improved post-operative pain relief.

Most operations are performed as arthroscopic procedures (keyhole surgery), but when appropriate Mr Mersich undertakes traditional open surgery.
