Mr Sanat Shah is Consultant Orthopaedic Surgeon at Manchester Royal Infirmary. A specialist in hip and knee replacement surgery and knee arthroscopy, he provides private treatment for conditions including arthritis and sports injuries at three leading independent hospitals in the Manchester area.

Mr Sanat Shah is a consultant orthopaedic and trauma surgeon specialising in lower limb problems. His subspecialty is hip and knee replacement including revision and knee arthroscopy.

Trained in trauma and orthopaedic surgery in Manchester and Southampton, and with further subspecialist training in lower limb replacement surgery, Mr Shah has been a consultant orthopaedic surgeon at Manchester Royal Infirmary since 2003. He is highly experienced in both trauma surgery and elective procedures, and is an undergraduate and postgraduate tutor at Manchester University.

Mr Shah is skilled in the diagnosis and treatment of knee conditions using arthroscopy, a type of keyhole surgery. Performed under general anaesthetic as an outpatient procedure, a small flexible fibre optic tube (arthroscope) is inserted into the knee, sending back images to a video monitor. This allows Mr Shah to examine the bones, ligaments, cartilage and tendons and determine the cause of any knee pain, or assess the level of damage in an injury. The progression of arthritis can also be monitored.

By inserting tiny surgical instruments through the arthroscope, Mr Shah is also able to carry out a number of knee treatments, including repair to damaged ligaments, tendons and cartilage, drainage of any built-up fluid, and removal of loose sections of bone and cartilage.
