Mr Nikhil Shah is Consultant Orthopaedic and Trauma Surgeon at the world renowned Wrightington Hospital, Wigan. He is a fellow-ship trained specialist in hip and knee surgery at BMI The Alexandra Hospital in Cheadle, Spire Manchester Hospital and at the John Charnely Wing of the Wrightington Hospital.

A gold medal-winning surgeon, Mr Shah was appointed as a consultant orthopaedic and trauma surgeon at the Wrightington Hospital in 2006 and is part of a team that provides the North West Acetabular Fracture Service. Practicing as NHS consultant at Wrightington Wigan and Leigh NHS Foundation Trust and in Manchester, he has a special interest in lower limb surgery, particularly patients with hip, knee and pelvic-acetabular problems. In 2014 he also completed the prestigious Rothman Ranawat American Hip Society Travelling Fellowship.

Mr Shah's clinical work concentrates predominantly on hip and knee replacement surgery for cases of arthritis, trauma, congenital abnormalities and failed implants, providing a range of procedures that are suitable both for the elderly and for the younger patient. He is skilled in the more demanding techniques needed for revision hip and knee surgery and has a particular expertise in cases of a fractured acetabulum (hip socket) following previous hip replacement surgery.

Mr Shah is also a skilled arthroscopic knee surgeon, offering expert diagnosis and treatment for problems such as cartilage damage and meniscal tears.
