

Mark Whiteley

Consultant Venous Surgeon and Consultant Phlebologist

London, Guildford, Bristol

Professor Mark Whiteley is a Consultant Venous Surgeon and Consultant Phlebologist specialising in walk-in, walk-out surgery for varicose veins. Unlike "vascular surgeons" who treat arteries and some veins, Mark only treats veins and venous conditions. A pioneer in the field of endovenous 'keyhole' varicose vein surgery, he provides effective, research-based treatment for varicose veins and other venous conditions.

In 2001, Professor Whiteley established The Whiteley Clinic as a private medical facility dedicated to the treatment and research of varicose veins and other venous conditions. Recognised nationally and internationally for their work, over the subsequent years he and his team have been at the forefront of innovation in this field, developing new procedures and continually improving minimally-invasive, office-based techniques. They have won several international and national prizes for this work.

Professor Whiteley's world-famous Whiteley Protocol™ is based on 20 years of collated data from his experience, studies and audits. Continually evolving and specifically devised to identify and address the underlying causes of varicose veins, it ensures that every Whiteley Clinic patient receives a consistent and excellent standard of diagnosis and treatment, regardless of which doctor treats them.

Regarded as a leading voice in the treatment of venous conditions, Professor Whiteley regularly travels internationally to present and teach at conferences and forums. He has previously sat on the Council of the Venous Forum, a section of the Royal Society of Medicine and the main venous body for professionals dealing with venous disease in the UK and was a director of the Charing Cross International Vascular Meeting for 5 years. However, he left both to found The College of Phlebology, an organisation dedicated to excellence in venous understanding and treatments.

In addition, Mark sits on the International Committee of the American Venous Forum (AVF) and also sits on the International Group of the UIP writing the international guidelines for Pelvic Congestion Syndrome. He is the founder and trustee of the Leg Ulcer Charity, which aims to empower patients, their families and their carers to understand their condition and know how to go about seeking a permanent cure.

Professor Whiteley has featured in the Tatler Good Surgery Guide for the last 10 years and was named 'Best for veins' in 2018. His clinics in London, Guildford and Bristol are rated 'Outstanding' by the Care Quality Commission.
