Based in Northampton, Mr David Ratliff is a highly experienced general, endocrine, laparoscopic and vascular surgeon offering a full range of procedures, including thyroid and parathyroid surgery, hernia repairs of all types, gall bladder surgery, diagnosis and management of varicose veins, treatment of anorectal problems including haemorrhoids and removal of lumps and bumps.

Mr David Ratliff is Consultant General and Vascular Surgeon at the Northampton General Hospital NHS Trust. With over 27 years' experience as a consultant in the fields of general, vascular and endocrine surgery, he provides private treatment for a range of conditions including hernias, gallstones, varicose veins and thyroid disorders at BMI Three Shires Hospital in Northampton.

Mr David Ratliff qualified in medicine from the University of Birmingham in 1977 and undertook his higher surgical training in the West Midlands. After completing his training on a Fellowship in Vascular Surgery in Vancouver, Canada, he was appointed as a Consultant Surgeon and Senior Lecturer in Surgery at the Leicester Royal Infirmary in 1991.

Since 1994, David has been a Consultant General and Vascular Surgeon at the Northampton General Hospital NHS Trust. During this time, he has led the progressive development and delivery of the general, endocrine and vascular surgical services in Northampton as high quality services with very good outcomes and a national reputation for clinical excellence.

David led the vascular service at the Northampton General Hospital (NGH) for over 20 years, introducing a wide range of new procedures and the latest technology and techniques. This resulted in major improvements and the formation of the Northamptonshire Vascular Service in 2012 with Northampton as the vascular centre.

Throughout his career, David has maintained a strong commitment to high professional standards and continuing professional development with up-to-date specialist knowledge. He was an Examiner for the Royal College of Surgeons and Intercollegiate Specialty Board in General Surgery for 16 years and Clinical Director of the Department of Surgery at NGH from 2001-2005.
