

Ramu Muniraju

Consultant Ophthalmic Surgeon
Surrey

Mr Ramu Muniraju is a consultant ophthalmic surgeon who has worked in the NHS for last 12 years at reputed teaching hospitals in London and has vast surgical experience. He provides comprehensive ophthalmic services and specialises in micro incision cataract surgery under anaesthetic drops, and holds particular interest in diabetic eye disease, macular degeneration, retinal lasers and other retinal disorders.

Mr Muniraju is a consultant ophthalmic surgeon at Epsom and St Helier University Hospitals NHS Trust, and has been a practicing ophthalmologist since 1995. In 2005, he joined the NHS as a specialist in cataract surgery and retina disorders. He furthered his expertise in retinal diseases through fellowship training at King's College Hospital and then completed his second fellowship in retinal diseases at the prestigious Moorfields Eye Hospital, London. Mr Muniraju's enormous experience at the forefront of his field makes him a highly sought-after specialist.
