

Ravi Ratnavel

Consultant Dermatologist
London and Buckinghamshire

Dr Ravi Ratnavel is a skin cancer specialist offering expert assessment and treatment of suspicious skin lesions using the full range of surgical and non-surgical techniques including Moh's surgery and photodynamic therapy (PDT). He also has a special interest and expertise in the management of skin rashes, acne, hair disorders and skin allergy.

Dr Ravi Ratnavel is Consultant Dermatologist formerly at Buckinghamshire Hospitals NHS Trust and Honorary Consultant at Oxford Radcliffe NHS Trust. He now practices at 25 Harley Street in London and provides a range of private dermatology services, including treatment for skin cancer, at multiple independent hospitals in Buckinghamshire/London.

A graduate of Oxford University, Dr Ratnavel underwent his clinical training at hospitals attached to London and Cambridge Universities and completed his dermatology training at the world renowned St John's Institute for Dermatology in London. With a special interest in the medical and surgical treatment of skin cancers, he has been the NHS clinical lead for the provision of skin cancer treatment services in the Buckinghamshire and Oxford region.

In 1996, Dr Ratnavel was awarded a Doctorate of Medicine by Oxford University and received accreditation by the General Medical Council as a Specialist in Dermatology. He became Fellow of The Royal College of Physicians (FRCP) in 2001.

Dr Ratnavel runs a busy clinical practice, working both privately and in the NHS with colleagues in a multi-disciplinary setting, offering a comprehensive dermatology service.

Patients are seen for consultation at a convenient time and scheduled thereafter for skin surgery, allergy tests, laser treatment, photodynamic therapy and in-patient ward treatments, as required.

Private appointments can be scheduled directly with the relevant hospital or clinic. A referral letter is not essential, but is preferred, and may be a requirement for claims under health insurance. Late evening consultations are available by appointment. Surgical lists run during the mornings only.
