

Jeremy Crew

Consultant Urological Surgeon

Oxford

Jeremy Crew is an Oxford-based Consultant Urological Surgeon, with a specialist interest in general urology, urological cancer, haematuria, and the diagnosis and management of bladder cancer and prostate cancer.

Jeremy Crew, MA, MD, BChir, FRCS(Urol) was appointed Consultant Urological Surgeon and Honorary Senior Lecturer to the Oxford Radcliffe Hospitals in 2001. He provides NHS and private practice services at hospitals in Oxford and Banbury.

Mr Crew qualified from Cambridge University and St Thomas' Hospital, London in 1989. After house jobs in London he practised as a Senior House Officer at Guys Hospital and St Georges Hospital in London and the Royal Surrey County Hospital, Guildford. Following a year as a General Surgical Registrar he was appointed as Specialist Registrar in Urology in Oxford in 1994. After 6 years of higher surgical training he was appointed as Consultant Urological Surgeon and Honorary Senior Lecturer in Oxford and Banbury in 2001.

During training Mr Crew did two years of very successful research into the molecular biology of bladder cancer culminating in being awarded a Doctor of Medicine degree from Cambridge University. His thesis was awarded the Sir Walter Langdon Brown Prize from Cambridge University (1998) and the European Association of Urology Thesis Award (1999).

Specialist training included Fellowships in the management of bladder cancer, prostate cancer and radical pelvic surgery at The Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Centre, New York, The Department of Urology at The University of Berne, Switzerland (under Professor Urs Studer) and more recently (2007) at The Institute of Urology and Nephrology Bladder Cancer Centre, Mansoura, Egypt.

Mr Crew is presently Chair of the Thames Valley Urological Cancer Group and sits on the Court of Examiners for the FRCS Urology examination.
