Bob Grover is an experienced Harley Street-based gastroenterologist and hepatologist with a broad range of expertise. Diagnosing and treating patients with stomach, bowel and liver conditions, he strives to provide a compassionate, high quality, safe and efficient service to all of his patients.

Dr Bob Grover qualified from Charing Cross and Westminster Medical School in 1996 and also obtained a First Class Honours BSc during his medical school training. As a result of his extensive training in gastroenterology, general medicine and hepatology, he received a highly competitive fellowship from the Royal College of Physicians towards a PhD and was awarded his thesis in 2010.

An accredited colonoscopy trainer, Dr Grover also developed a keen interest in advanced hepatology, undertaking training at the internationally recognised King's College Hospital Liver Unit. He received specialty accreditation in hepatology during that time.

Dr Grover has a bustling practice at Hillingdon Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust, with a range of patients with liver and gastroenterological conditions. Running the viral hepatitis treatment service at Hillingdon Hospitals, Dr Grover also teaches gastroscopy and colonoscopy to gastroenterology and colorectal trainees. Dr Grover completes over 700 NHS colonoscopies and gastroscopies per annum to diagnose and treat stomach and bowel conditions.

As well as his practice, Dr Grover lectures to junior doctors and GPs in the areas of hepatology and gastroenterology. He attends a range of meetings to keep well-informed of all cutting edge developments in his field.
