Professor Philip Drew is an Oncoplastic and Reconstructive Breast Surgeon at Duchy Hospital in Truro. Also based at The London Breast Clinic at 108 Harley Street, he specialises in breast cancer, benign breast disease, gynaecomastia, cosmetic and reconstructive breast surgery and medicolegal work relating to breast conditions.

Professor Philip Drew is Consultant Oncoplastic Breast Surgeon at the Royal Cornwall Hospital Trust. An expert in breast disease in female and male patients and in cosmetic breast surgery, he offers private clinical and medico-legal services at Duchy Hospital in Truro and at The London Breast Clinic at 108 Harley Street.

Professor Philip Drew qualified from St Mary's Hospital, Imperial College London, in 1990. Following training in London, Yorkshire and Wales he was appointed Senior Lecturer in Surgical Oncology at the Hull York Medical School in 2000, becoming Professor of Tissue Engineering in 2005. He has been Consultant Surgeon to the Royal Cornwall Hospitals Trust since 2008 and holds an Honorary Chair in Surgery from the Hull York Medical School.

In addition to his basic medical degrees, Professor Drew has completed two higher medical degrees with Honours, Master of Surgery and Doctor of Medicine.

In his NHS position as a Consultant Oncoplastic Breast Surgeon at the Royal Cornwall Hospital Trust, Professor Drew is involved in the treatment of over 500 new patients with breast cancer every year. He plays an active role in the education of surgeons and is an examiner for the Royal College of Surgeons (RCS) of England, Imperial College and several other universities in the UK and overseas. He is also co-director of the Advanced Management of Breast Disease Course of the RCS England, UK Senior Course Director for the Association of Breast Surgery and is on the executive council of the Association of Breast Surgery.

Professor Drew's private practice is based at Duchy Hospital in Truro. He is also a member of The London Breast Clinic team at 108 Harley Street, an integrated service staffed by a dedicated multi-disciplinary team specialising in the assessment, diagnosis and treatment of all benign and malignant breast disease.
