Mr Simon Smith is an Essex-based Consultant Breast and Endocrine Surgeon specialising in oncoplastic breast surgery (breast cancer, reconstruction and cosmetic breast surgery).

Based at Broomfield Hospital in Chelmsford, Mr Simon Smith BSc, MS, FRCS, FRCS(Gen Surg) is a Consultant Breast and Endocrine Surgeon. He is an 'Oncoplastic' Breast Surgeon performing not only resectional breast surgery for breast cancer, but also many reconstructive and cosmetic breast procedures.

Mr Smith provides private breast and endocrine procedures at Ramsay Springfield Hospital and The Chelmsford Private Day Surgery Hospital in Chelmsford.

Training and experience

Mr Smith qualified from St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington in 1993, and remained in and around West London for the majority of his postgraduate training. He is a fully accredited general surgeon, and won the Association of Surgeons Gold Medal for top position in the UK in the Intercollegiate Surgical Board Examinations in general and breast surgery.

Mr Smith trained in breast surgery at several breast units, including St. Mary's, Hillingdon, Colchester and Chelmsford. Training in reconstructive and cosmetic breast surgery was gained at St. Mary's, and subsequently on the National Oncoplastic Fellowship hosted at Colchester & St Andrew's Centre for Plastic Surgery at Broomfield Hospital, Chelmsford.

Mr Smith underwent endocrine surgery training at St. Mary's, London and as Senior Registrar at Hammersmith Hospital which, at the time, was the largest endocrine surgical centre in the UK.
