Ms Madhu Nagar is a Consultant Ophthalmologist in Wakefield and Leeds, West Yorkshire, whose special interests are in cataract surgery and the treatment of glaucoma. She offers the latest techniques such as Selective Laser Trabeculoplasty, micropulse laser treatment, insertion of iStent and micro-incision cataract surgery. She is experienced in managing complex and challenging cases, and in clear lens extraction.

Ms Nagar completed her training with a Glaucoma Fellowship at the renowned Moorfields Eye Hospital in London. She pioneered Selective Laser Trabeculoplasty (SLT) in the UK in 1999 and has authored chapters on the procedure in medical texts and in peer reviewed journals.

Ms Nagar holds a substantive NHS consultant post with the Mid Yorkshire Hospitals Trust, where she is the clinical lead for glaucoma. Her private practice is at the Spire Methley Park Hospital, Leeds. She also undertakes local training of doctors, nurses and opticians.

Actively involved in medical research, Ms Nagar is internationally-recognised as an expert in Selective Laser Trabeculoplasty and is a member of the SLT International Expert Panel. She is regularly invited as a guest speaker at various international and national glaucoma meetings, presenting and discussing research findings and new techniques / treatments. Mrs Nagar's interview regarding Selective Laser Trabeculoplasty can be found in the News & Media section.

Currently, Mr Nagar is the principal investigator of an ongoing multicentre research trial of Implantation of Xen Gel implant for management of mild to moderate glaucoma at MYHT, one of four sites in the UK.

She is a member of a Charity called Yorkshire Indian Society. Since the inception of the committee, the charity organises Annual Charity Banquet to raise funds for nominated charities both in UK and India and generously contribute and support Lord Mayor of Leeds chosen charity.
