

Hosaam Nasr

Consultant Vascular & Endovascular Surgeon
Birmingham

Mr Hosaam Nasr is a Birmingham-based Consultant Vascular & Endovascular Surgeon specialising in minimally invasive interventions in vascular surgery. Highly experienced in endovascular (keyhole) techniques, he provides individually tailored walk-in-walk-out varicose vein treatment at Premier Veins in Edgbaston and at private hospitals in Solihull, Sutton Coldfield and Droitwich.

Mr Hosaam Nasr qualified in medicine from the University of Liverpool in 2001. He undertook his specialist vascular training in the West Midlands, focussing on minimally invasive interventions in vascular surgery. On completion of this training, he was awarded the British Society of Endovascular Therapy fellowship which allowed him to gain extensive experience in endovascular (keyhole) interventions. He completed his doctorate in vascular research at St George's, University of London.

Hosaam was appointed as Consultant Vascular and Endovascular Surgeon at University Hospitals Birmingham in 2016, where he is now the audit lead. He is also the lead on the introduction of endovascular intervention for deep venous disease in his unit.

Hosaam has a particular interest in minimally invasive vascular surgery, including the treatment of varicose and thread veins, and angioplasty and stenting for arterial disease.

Hosaam is based at Premier Veins, a one-stop varicose veins clinic in Edgbaston's Medical Quarter where patients can receive expert consultation, diagnosis and treatment for problem veins from a team of leading Vascular and Endovascular Consultants. The clinic is equipped with the latest minimally invasive technology and treatment is tailored to each patient's needs using a range of highly effective walk-in-walk-out procedures.
