

Aoife Turner

Double board-certified Plastic and Aesthetic Surgeon
Harley Street, London

Based in the heart of Harley Street in London, Ms Aoife Turner is a BAPRAS-accredited Consultant Plastic Surgeon specialising in aesthetic rejuvenation and beautification. Skilled in both non-surgical aesthetic treatments and cosmetic surgery, she offers personalised treatment plans designed to achieve lasting natural results, boost self-esteem and restore confidence.

Ms Aoife Turner graduated with a first-class medical degree from the University College Cork in Ireland and completed her specialist surgical training at St Vincent's University Hospital, Dublin. Having developed a passion for plastic surgery, she undertook her specialist higher training in plastic and reconstructive surgery at Germany's leading training hospital, BUK Hamburg, completing the European Board of Plastic Reconstructive and Aesthetic Surgery (EBOPRAS) examinations. She then continued her career at Chelsea & Westminster Hospital in London and was admitted to the specialist register of plastic surgeons in the UK.

Now in full-time private practice in Harley Street, Ms Turner stays abreast of all the latest technologies and developments in aesthetic medicine and cosmetic surgery, regularly attending national and international conferences and workshops and making regular contributions to the scientific literature. She has also worked internationally as a consultant in Hamburg, Germany and Doha, Qatar.

Ms Turner understands the relationship between appearance and self-confidence, and how improving a patient's appearance can often improve quality of life. With a meticulous eye for detail, she is committed to achieving natural results that complement the patient's overall facial or body proportions.

A consultation with Ms Turner is never rushed or pressured. She listens carefully and provides honest recommendations for the most suitable treatment options in each individual case.
